About Pediatric Feeding and Swallowing Associates

Pediatric Feeding and Swallowing Associates, is a private outpatient medical speech pathology practice that specializes exclusively in pediatric feeding and dysphagia (swallowing disorders). We work very closely with pediatricians and specialists and only accept patients with a physician's order.

The owner and clinical director, Joan Dietrich Comrie, M.S., CCC-SLP has focused solely on these services for 30 years. Joan is a national and international speaker and writer on the many aspects of pediatric dysphagia and frequently provides guidance to physicians and therapists across the country.

Who We Serve

We serve infants and children from birth to 18 with a range of challenges. These include:

Diagnosis	Symptoms	Parental concerns
Dysphagia	Coughing	Bottle/breastfeeding difficulties
Reflux	Choking	Transition difficulties: liquid, puree, table food
Failure to thrive	Gagging	Picky eaters/ dysfunctional feeders
Failure to grow	URI, pneumonia	Oral motor/sensory motor function difficulties
Autism Spectrum ASD	Congestion	Feeding refusal/ volume limiting
Down Syndrome	Constipation	Texture difficulties/inability to chew
CP, Ankyloglossia	Expulsion	Dependence on liquid or G-Tube

What We Do: Evaluation and Therapy

A Feeding/Dysphagia Evaluation at Pediatric Feeding and Swallowing Associates is a comprehensive evaluation of all systems involved in feeding and swallowing - oral function, posture, upper aerodigestive tract, reflux, respiratory, behavioral, swallow safety, oral feeding safety, risk of aspiration, obstruction and nasopharyngeal backflow. Complex issues that interfere with a child's ability to feed safely are identified and evidence based skilled therapy addresses individual problems. Fast positive changes are made through patient and parent education.

About the Oral Pharyngeal Motility Study

Pediatric Feeding and Swallowing Associates is the only outpatient facility that has the expertise to complete the instrumental gold standard evaluation of dysphagia: Oral Pharyngeal Motility Study (OPMS). It is the only assessment that can rule out aspiration. Completing the OPMS at an outpatient facility is not only convenient, but it is also cost effective as we save our patients the expensive hospital charges.

How to refer on page 2 ➡

How to Make a Referral

For uniform compliance with insurers:

1 Send an order with the following verbiage:

“Evaluate and initiate therapy for dysphagia, complete Oral Pharyngeal Motility Study if indicated”

2 Include the following:

- Orders must be dated and placed on a script pad or office letterhead.
- Please include ordering physician’s NPI number.
- Please include legible physician signature or check, circle printed signature. (We are out of compliance if signature is illegible).

The associated codes are: Oral dysphagia (R13.11), oral pharyngeal dysphagia (R13.12) or pharyngeal dysphagia (R13.13)

3 Fax the Order to: 727-279-4977

For Questions please call: 727-317-7655

Our Commitment to Your Patients

Our passion is to share our skills and knowledge with our patients and their families to achieve long term solutions for very stressful and complicated feeding issues.

Our Commitment to the Community

Through our website, Facebook, News and Observer articles, trianglemom2mom blog, and lunch and learn opportunities, our goal is to educate professionals how to identify feeding and swallowing disorders and reflux, enabling early intervention. These articles also provide parents with accurate information about feeding and swallowing disorders.

If I can provide any additional information or how we can help your patients, please feel free to contact me at 727-317-7655.

Sincerely,

Joan Dietrich Comrie, M.S., CCC-SLP

Picky Eater or Selective Eater?

Causes

There is no real known "cause" of Selective Eating. Environmental influences, Reflux, Prematurity, Sensory Integration Disorders, Anxiety disorders and negative feeding experiences can increase the incidence.

Early Intervention

Can reduce the risk of medical or developmental complications and social and emotional issues.

We Can Help

With 30+ years of feeding expertise, we can help children with Selective Eating and their families work through the most challenging feeding difficulties.

Many families report that their child is a picky eater when they are actually a Selective Eater.

Did you know that Picky eating is a typical developmental stage that occurs at the same time that a toddler is exhibiting independence?

Although similar in some ways, Selective Eating is not part of typical development and children "don't just grow out of it". Selective Eating is a disorder that can cause many problems for children and their families.

Selective Eating can lead to medical, nutritional, social and emotional difficulties for the child and it can negatively impact family life.

That sounds like my child, what should I do?

If your child is exhibiting any of the characteristics of a Selective Eater or you are concerned about your child's feeding behaviors, it is important that you consult with your doctor now. The "just make him eat" or "he will eat when he gets hungry" strategies do not work with Selective Eaters and may actually make things worse.

Until I get feeding therapy, what can I do at home?

- Have family meals
- Continue to offer unstressed presentations of non-favored foods
- Do not bribe, sneak or force any food
- Ignore or time-out undesired behaviors

Common Characteristics

- Gagging, coughing, choking
- Extreme food selectivity
- Refuses unfamiliar foods
- Fear of food or food anxiety
- Rigid eating habits
- Limited variety (<20 foods)
- Strong negative reaction to the introduction of new foods
- Oral sensory and motor issues
- Does not eat family diet
- Disruptive mealtime behaviors
- Food jags

Complications

- Poor nutrition
- Social and emotional anxiety
- Developmental delays
